

The Thoroughbred Quiz Answers

Round 7

1. Which of the following are names of bits? (Three points)

Waterford Dutch Gag

Hackamore

Eggbutt with Lozenge

2. What is the correct order of footfalls in the horse's canter, if he is cantering on the left rein? Write the numbers 1-4 next to each movement, 1 being the first step and 4 being the last movement. (Four points)

Moment of suspension	4
Diagonal pair of left hind and right foreleg	2
Right hind leg	1
Left foreleg	3

3. Riding on a beach can be a great experience, especially if there are long stretches of sand to canter on. However, if we are thinking of riding on the beach with our horse what would we need to think about? (Two points)

Other members of the public and their dogs

Rising tides

4. There is a large range of different feeds we can give horses and ponies depending on what they require. In the table below are some different types of feed, can you link the names to the descriptions. (Five points)

Types of Feed	Description
Veteran Feed	These feeds are for working horses and ponies. The additional fibre with added minerals and vitamins ensures the horses and ponies eating this get a balanced diet without gaining weight.
Lo-Cal Balancer	These feeds are packed with energy for hard working horses needing quick release energy. Often higher in protein, vitamins and minerals and antioxidants that support muscles.
Stud Mix	These feeds are often soaked for easier consumption and to help digestibility. They may contain higher levels of biotin, oils and herbs to aid joint mobility and condition for older horses that need additional support.
Competition Mix	These feeds are given to pregnant mares, mares with foals and growing foals. These are higher in protein and packed with nutrients to support muscle and bone growth and development.
High Fibre Cube/Mix	These feeds are nutrient rich, providing all the daily vitamins and minerals required but not the calories. These are good for those horses and ponies who are good-doers or overweight but still need a balanced diet.

5. British Eventing competitions consist of three phases; dressage, cross country and show jumping. Points and penalties are combined from each phase to work out the overall winner of a competition. Depending on you and your horse's experience there are different levels you can compete at. Listed below are just five of the differing available levels, can you put them in order from the introductory to the most advanced? 1 being the introductory level and 5 being the most advanced. (Five points)

BE90	1
BE100 Plus	2
Advanced Level	5
Novice	3
Intermediate Novice	4

6. Can you label the three points on the horse below? (Three points)

7. For a centre to be British Horse Society Approved they must meet a certain standard. Riding Schools and Livery Yards are inspected annually to ensure they continuously meet these standards. True or False? (One point)

True

8. The Icelandic Horse has a unique fifth gait, what is this called? (One point)

Tolt

9. What are two advantages of using shavings as bedding for horses? (Two points)

It is less dusty than straw

Horses and ponies don't eat it

10. What does the term 'roughing off' mean? (One point)

It's the process of preparing a horse for some time off, you may reduce workload over several weeks to nothing or light work, increase their turnout time, take off their shoes and reduce their hard feed as part of this process